

Stress Reduction and Suicide Prevention for Project Managers and Their Teams

You can make a difference. You can save a life. It can be as simple as starting a conversation.

IT, healthcare, and construction professionals are at some of the greatest risk for suicide according to the Center for Disease Control and Prevention's Occupational Suicide List. Project managers in these industries are well served to recognize the prevalence of death by suicide and the importance of prevention practices within the workplace.

Frank King, The Mental Health Comedian and Suicide Prevention Speaker, works with PMs to develop effective suicide prevention strategies within their industry. Participants learn how to recognize warning signs associated with suicide, understand how to start a conversation, and offer support through referrals. By participating in this course, PMs have the opportunity to make a difference in the lives of their co-workers and others.

As a former writer for The Tonight Show, Frank knows how to infuse humor into his content and uses personal experience to highlight the importance of suicide prevention. Frank illustrates how suicide prevention practices reduce harm as well as facilitate a healthier, more productive, and more profitable office. Participants will gain a holistic understanding of mental health challenges in the workplace and learn how to reduce workplace stress, improve industry culture, and promote PM and team well-

FRANK KING

Speaker, Writer, Stigma Fighter

Are you able to recognize the signs and symptoms of depression and thoughts of suicide in your team? Gain the skills and understanding necessary to save a life.

Depression and suicide run in Frank King’s family. He has thought about killing himself more times than he can count. He’s fought a lifetime battle with depression and thoughts of ending his life.

Frank has turned that long dark journey of the soul into inspirational and motivational educational courses for healthcare professionals. His courses share lifesaving insights into mental and emotional health. Frank King is a suicide prevention and postvention speaker, author and corporate comedian. He was a writer for The Tonight Show for 20 years and has been featured on CNN’s Business Unusual. Frank is co-author of a book on men’s mental fitness, Guts, Grit, and the Grind. He co-hosts a podcast, The Suicide Preven: on Punchline. He has presented five TEDx talks.

By coming out, as it were, and standing in his truth and doing it with humor, Frank starts a conversation giving people with mental and emotional illness permission to give voice to their feelings and experiences surrounding depression and suicide. He creates a common pool of knowledge in which those who suffer, and those who care about them, can swim. Frank believes that where there is humor there is hope, where there is laughter there is life, and nobody dies laughing.

“It was really a great pleasure to have you speak at our Cardiovascular Symposium. We can all get a bit serious and tunnel-visioned in terms of our professions and you gave us a very nice perspective from the view of the patient. Your performance really lightened the atmosphere of the conference; there were several cardiologist at my table that were bent over double laughing!”
